Community Survey: Quality of Life is High in Wilsonville

In a recent survey conducted to gauge how Wilsonville residents rate their quality of life, 94 percent of respondents indicated that their city was an 'excellent' or 'good' place to live.

That rating was one of many that generally demonstrated residents' high overall satisfaction with Wilsonville's services and amenities.

- 94% positively rate living in Wilsonville
- 89% percent report a high quality of life
- 88% recommend Wilsonville as a place to raise kids
- 87% positively rate the service provided by City employees

The City participates in the National Community Survey (NCS) every two years. By doing so, staff and elected officials can observe trends over time. Large deviations from previously stable trends represent opportunities to understand how policies, programs, or public information may have affected the opinions of residents.

The data gathered from the survey can be compared with that from more than 600 communities where similar surveys are conducted. This provides context that allows analysts to see where local satisfaction may be above or below national benchmarks.

Generally, the City scored high marks for its safety, natural environment and parks and recreation amenities; the three facets of livability deemed the most important to the 500+ residents who responded.

The NCS report also noted the City's high ratings for all modes of mobility, noting that resident satisfaction with 'ease of bicycle travel' and 'ease of public transportation' were higher in Wilsonville than in most communities.

Residents expressed growing economic worry, and reported traffic and affordable housing as their two most pressing short-term concerns.

Overall, satisfaction was slightly lower in 2022 than in 2020, though Wilsonville's ratings generally remained relatively high; most are at or above the national benchmark. Respondents remain pleased with the City's core amenities, providing high ratings for local parks, the library, utility infrastructure, transit services and public safety.

A summary report of the survey results was delivered to the City Council in August. That presentation and the raw results of the 2022 National Community Survey are available at ci.wilsonville.or.us/communitysurvey

Apply by Oct. 30 for Open Seats on City Boards & Commissions

The City is recruiting applicants interested in serving on the boards and commissions that provide guidance and oversight of City programs.

New terms begin in January 2023 for 19 open seats on six boards. Members attend evening meetings (no more than once a month) and assist in making policy recommendations to the City Council.

"The valuable leadership, insight and oversight that our board members provide helps Wilsonville sustain its high quality of life," Wilsonville Mayor Julie Fitzgerald said.

Boards with positions to be filled include:

- Budget Committee (1 seats)
- Planning Commission (1 seats)
- Parks & Recreation Advisory Board (2 seats)
- Kitakata Sister City Advisory Board (3 seats)
- Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Board (5 seats, including two for high school students)

- Development Review Board (7 seats)

Diversity on the City's Boards and Commissions is critical to ensure that City policies and programs serve every community member. People of all races, genders, ages and nationalities are encouraged to apply.

Qualified applicants are to be interviewed by Mayor Fitzgerald, who then makes appointment recommendations to City Council that must be approved by a majority vote.

The application deadline, for new applicants as well as existing members seeking re-appointment, is Sunday, Oct. 30. Applications are available and may be completed online at ci.wilsonville.or.us/boardsapp

For additional information on applying for board service, contact Kimberly Veliz, City Recorder, at 503-570-1506; cityrecorder@ci.wilsonville.or.us.

Mayor's Message

Civics Academy is a First Step Toward Lifting Our Community

Knowledge is power. Using your knowledge to take action is even more powerful.

We all have the ability to improve the quality of life within and our city and for our neighbors, and I believe that the degree to which people feel empowered to participate relates directly to how well our local government works.

That's why Wilsonville's Civics Academy was established. The program provides knowledge and direction for people looking for new ways to make a difference close to home.

Since its inception in 2015, the Civics Academy has provided about 200 residents with an in-depth look at City operations.

The comments I hear from those who have participated reinforce just how powerful this first-hand knowledge can be. The program has inspired many to join City boards, work with local non-profits, or otherwise put their unique skills to work for the community's benefit.

The Civics Academy is now accepting applications for its 2023 program. If you would like to know more about how the City operates, if you want to become more involved in local issues, or if you are simply curious about how Wilsonville functions, I encourage you to apply by the Nov. 10 deadline.

The curriculum includes presentations from the City Manager, City Councilors, State legislators, lobbyists and City employees, and also provides day trips to the State Capitol and the Coffee Creek Correctional Facility.

For many, the program is an inspiring first step toward greater civic engagement. Prospective board candidates often tell me that their experience with the Civics Academy influenced their decision to apply.

Prospective board candidates often tell me that their experience with the Civics Academy influenced their decision to apply.

The program has added diversity to City boards, and yielded a new network of ambassadors vested in Wilsonville's future.

In a world where people often rely on second hand (mis)information from people in their social media bubble, this program provides direct, fact-based conversations and leaves graduates with a first-hand knowledge about what makes Wilsonville special.

The program also underlines the value of person-to-person communication. Civics Academy participants have face-to-face interaction with elected officials, they can ask direct questions of City planners and division leaders, and they can befriend other civic-minded community members.

The program is free and takes up only one evening (typically the third Thursday) each month for six months.

I can't sing this program's praises enough. The Civics Academy has been instrumental in building a stronger, more engaged community, and we're always looking for talented, motivated problem solvers.

If you're interested in taking a great first step toward becoming more involved, see page 3 to learn more, and visit ci.wilsonville.or.us/academy to see meeting dates and to apply.

The new nature play area at Memorial Park is among the recent projects developed with funding from the Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhancement Program.

New Community Project Funding Cycle Underway

The City is looking for new projects to receive funding consideration through the Wilsonville-Metro Community Enhancement Program.

The City receives $1 from Metro for every ton of wet waste processed in Wilsonville at Republic Services. As much as $80,000 may be available to re-invest in community improvement projects nominated and led by individuals, businesses, non-profits and/or City employees.

Program criteria stipulate that a project must meet at least one of the following goals to qualify for funding consideration:

- Improve the appearance or environmental quality of the community.
- Reduce the amount or toxicity of waste.
- Increase reuse and recycling opportunities.
- Result in rehabilitation or upgrade of real or personal property owned or operated by a non-profit organization.

Wilsonville on Verge of History as Nov. 8 Election Day Draws Near

In Oregon and across the United States, Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Wilsonville electors will vote two City Councilors to new four-year terms, as the terms of Councilor Charlotte Lehan and Councilor Ben West expire on Dec. 31, 2022. Neither has sought re-election.

Just two Wilsonville residents filed with Clackamas County Elections to appear as candidates on the November ballot — Katie Dunwell and Caroline Berry.

Dunwell currently serves on the City's Development Review Board, an experience that she says has helped her recognize many of the City's challenges and opportunities.

"This is an exciting time for Wilsonville as we welcome new citizens," Dunwell said. "With this growth, our city leaders have a responsibility to preserve what makes Wilsonville special. If I am elected, I look forward to listening first to our citizens, then providing thoughtful leadership to our beautiful community."

Berry, an urban planner, is looking forward to putting her expertise to work on Wilsonville's behalf.

"I want to lead Wilsonville so it will continue to be a beautiful city where people enjoy calling it home and where businesses thrive."

History in the Making

If elected, Dunwell and Berry would be sworn in by the City's Municipal Court Judge at the Jan. 2, 2023, meeting of the Wilsonville City Council. The occasion would set a precedent as the first time in the City's history that its five-member elected body was composed entirely of women.

Caroline Berry

Katie Dunwell

No local measures appear on the ballot, which should arrive in the mail shortly after ballots are mailed on Oct. 19 (expect voter pamphlets to arrive by mail about one week prior). Oregon's voter registration deadline is Tuesday, Oct. 18.

The City's only ballot drop is located at City Hall; there is no longer a ballot drop at the Wilsonville Library. Ballots may be dropped around-the-clock up until 8 pm on Election Night.

For more information, visit Clackamas.us/Elections or co.washington.or.us/Elections sonal property owned or operated by a non-profit organization.

- Result in the preservation or enhancement of wildlife, riparian zones, wetlands, forestlands and marine areas, and/or improve the public awareness and the opportunities to enjoy them.
- Result in improvement to, or an increase in, recreational areas and programs.
- Result in improvement in safety.
- Benefit youth, seniors, low income persons or under served populations

Applications are open Nov. 1-Jan. 14. There are two application workshops on Nov. 30 (noon, 6 pm) to discuss project ideas and the application process. Attend in person at the City Council Chambers or via Zoom: <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/84024271276>

The Community Enhancement program has funded a great number of community projects, including the Nature Play Area at Memorial Park, the Art and Culture Survey and Strategic Plan, Beauty and the Bridge Interpretive Signs, the Community Reader Board and Wilsonville Public Library Signage, and many others.

Civics Academy Enrollment Now Underway for 2023

Wilsonville’s Civics Academy, which provides civics-minded residents with an in-depth introductory course in City operations, is now accepting applications for the 2023 program.

Applications must be received by Nov. 10. The seven-month program begins on Dec. 15, 2022.

The Civics Academy meets one evening a month at City Hall (typically on the third Thursday of the month).

The curriculum includes lectures, field trips and other activities designed to chart a path for those interested in future roles on volunteer boards with the City or local non-profits. It also provides a forum for community members to meet others who share an interest in local government.

The Civics Academy is limited to about 25 members. The program is provided at no cost, and is open to Wilsonville residents, including high school students. If space permits, spots may be allocated to local business operators or employees who live outside of Wilsonville and work within City limits.

For more information, contact Zoe Mombert, Assistant to the City Manager, at 503-570-1503; Mombert@ci.wilsonville.or.us or go online at ci.wilsonville.or.us/academy

Practice Earthquake Preparedness During Great ShakeOut

This month, our Wilsonville Ready campaign is centered around earthquake preparedness.

A Cascadia Subduction Zone earthquake is believed to be inevitable in the current century.

When it occurs, Wilsonville residents must be prepared to withstand days or weeks without access to the services we currently take for granted, including power, water, sewer and internet.

By planning ahead, you can help mitigate the consequences of a catastrophic earthquake while emergency responders are working to restore services and treat those most critically injured. Visit wilsonville-ready.com for tips on preparing your home.

About the Great Oregon Shakeout

Being prepared also includes knowing what to do when the shaking begins.

The Great Oregon ShakeOut is an annual earthquake safety drill to keep earthquake preparedness front of mind for Oregon residents. We encourage residents and local businesses to join in and practice taking cover on Thursday, Oct. 20 at 10:20 am.

At 10:20, employ the basics of earthquake safety: Immediately Drop, Cover, and Hold On! Doing so reduces your chance of injury, as it’s impossible to know an earthquake’s intensity.

1) DROP where you are, onto your hands and knees. This position protects you from being knocked over and allows you to stay low and crawl to a safer area.

2) COVER your head and neck with one arm/hand.

If a sturdy table or desk is nearby, crawl underneath. If there’s no nearby shelter, crawl next to an interior wall (away from windows). Stay on your knees; bend over to protect vital organs

3) HOLD ON until the shaking stops. If under shelter, hold on to it with one hand and be ready to move with your shelter if it shifts. If not sheltered, hold on to your head and neck with both arms and hands. Do not move outside to another location. Quakes occur without warning and may be violent enough to prevent running or crawling. People are more likely to be injured if moving during strong shaking.

You never know if the first jolt of an earthquake is the start of ‘the big one,’ so always Drop, Cover and Hold On!

Create your family’s disaster preparedness plan, so you’re better prepared for the aftermath of a major earthquake. Learn more at ShakeOut.org/Oregon.

Frog Pond East & South Master Plan Update: Planners Zero In on Area Land Use Plan

Frog Pond East and South Master Planning continues, defining the elements that will shape Wilsonville’s next great neighborhoods.

This master planning process identifies the types and locations of the homes, parks, open spaces, streets, trails and neighborhood amenities to be built over the next 10-20 years.

Developing this long-term plan is an extensive process that includes identifying water, sewer, stormwater, and transportation infrastructure needs and funding sources.

The Plan is informed by analysis of area housing trends and existing inventory to ensure the development of residences that meet the community’s future needs and provide home-buying opportunities for the broad cross-section of people who may wish to live in Wilsonville.

Draft Land Use Plan Now Complete

The diagram pictured at right is the draft land use plan. Each residential land use type (Type 1, Type 2, Type 3) on the map represents an area designed to have a cohesive look and feel.

Zones marked Type 1 include the tallest, most closely-spaced units. Buildings are less tall, and more widely-spaced in each successive zone, though each zone allows a variety of home types, including detached single-family homes, townhouses, and apartments/condos.

The map also shows additional information, including the site of Meridian Park Middle School, the location of future parks and a commercial center, and the orientation of the area’s residential streets.

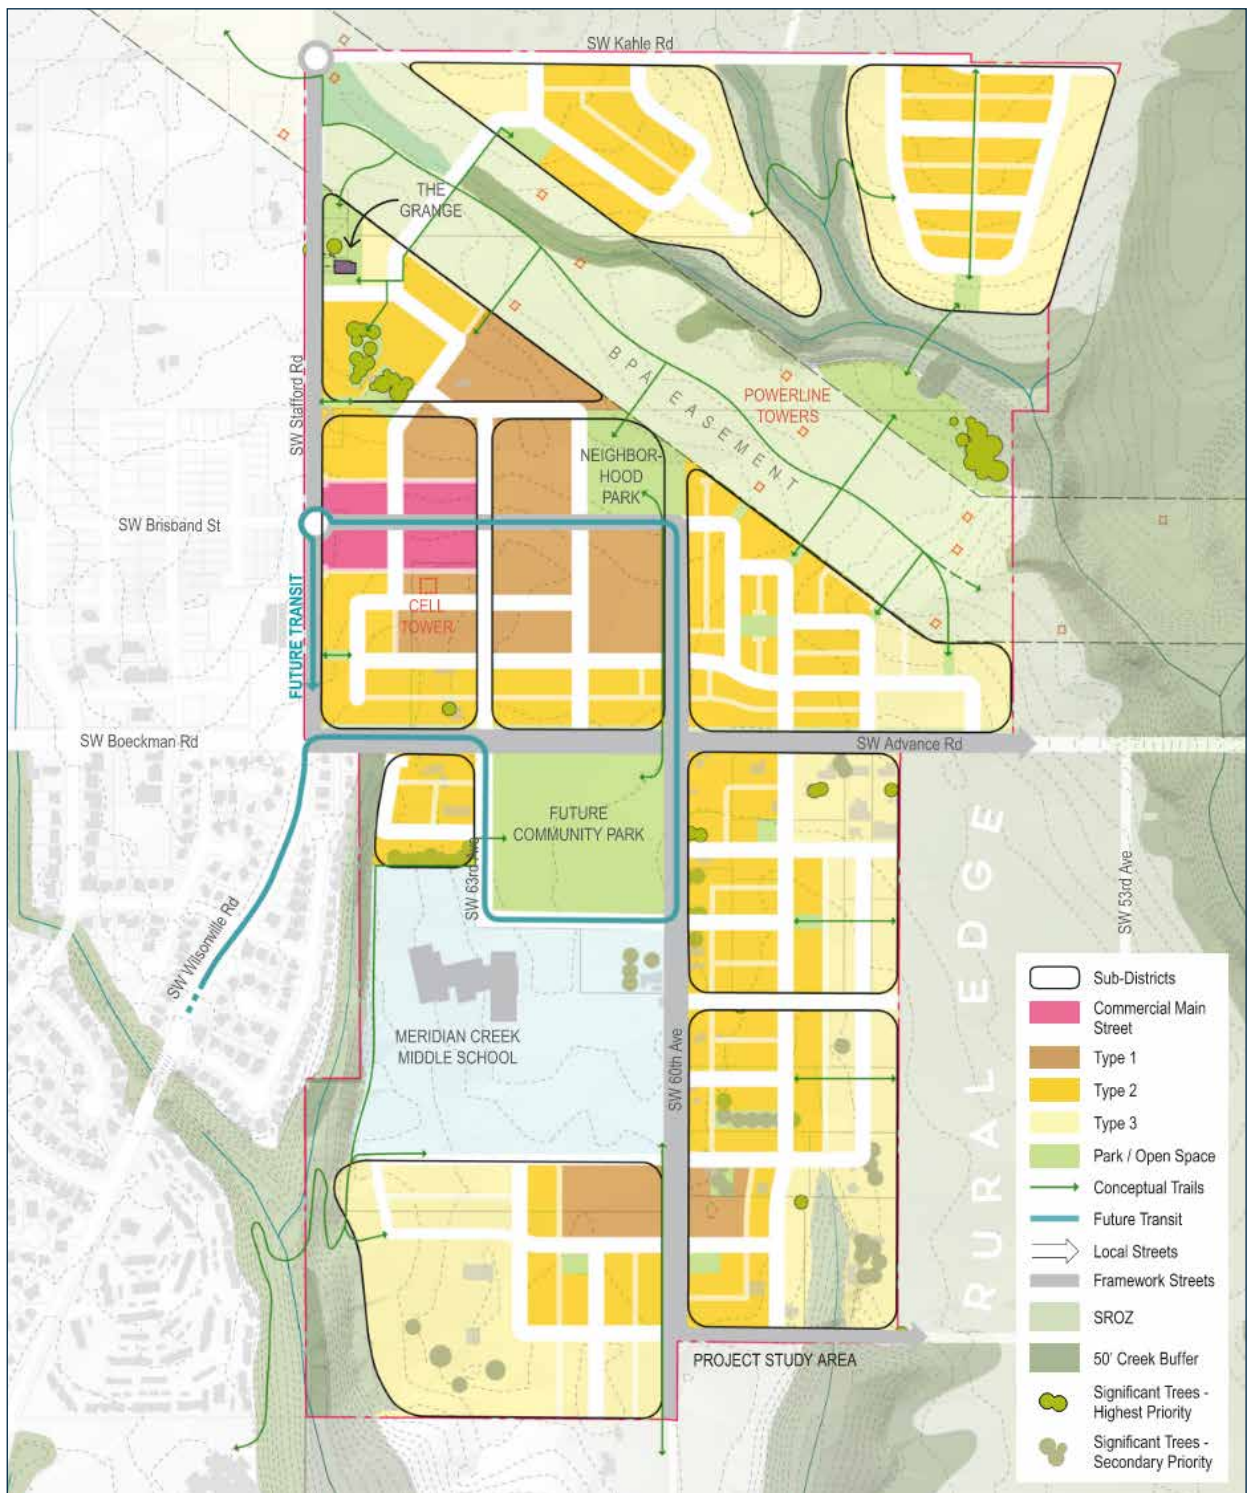

Development of this draft land use plan and other elements of the Master Plan are informed by public input, and by regular staff work sessions with the City Council and the Planning Commission.

Planners are inviting public comment on the draft land use plan, and has October work sessions scheduled with the City Council and the Planning Commission.

The Plan is on schedule to be adopted before the end of the calendar year.

POLICE CHIEF'S CORNER

New-Look SRO Patrol Car Better Serves Our Student Population

Wilsonville's School Resource Officer (SRO), Zach Keirsey, has a unique role within the Wilsonville Police Department. He serves as the Wilsonville Police Department's (WPD) law enforcement liaison to the students and staff at Wilsonville public schools.

Police Chief Rob Wurpes

Zach is a visible, consistent presence at Wilsonville High School, where he provides guidance to students and staff and helps deter trespassers and limit any criminal activity on campus ... among other duties. You might recall I wrote about Zach this summer when his quick thinking helped save the life of a student suffering a medical emergency.

Earlier this year, Zach came to me with an idea to make his patrol car easily identifiable. He believed it would put students, staff, and parents more at ease to recognize his vehicle. He also believed the car's design should provide a connection to students and staff and foster school pride.

I thought it was a great idea that would help break down barriers, instill a sense of community ownership of the SRO program and make a great conversation starter. So Zach put the wheels in motion by reaching out to the school's art department. Zach shared his idea with students studying graphic design, and several students were motivated to contribute great ideas and concepts for consideration.

After staff at the high school, the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office, the WPD and the City of Wilsonville selected a preferred design, decals were printed and applied to the vehicle. The results are remarkable. We appreciate the great student contributions, and congratulate Cayden Browning for designing a great-looking police vehicle that beautifully achieves Zach's goals.

Keep your eyes open, and give Zach a wave when you see him riding around town. Go Wildcats!

Fire Prevention Month: Create, Practice Escape Plan

October is Fire Prevention Month, and Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue is sharing a reminder that "fire won't wait — plan your escape."

The Oregon Office of State Fire Marshal's 2022 campaign, "Plan, Practice, Be Prepared with a Home Fire Escape Plan," focuses on the importance of knowing what to do in the event of a fire.

Fire is nothing like what you see on television or in the movies. It produces dark and toxic smoke that can fill a home so quickly that occupants become confused and never make it out. That is why every firefighter wears an air pack before entering a burning building and uses thermal imaging devices to search for anyone trapped inside a structure.

Working smoke alarms are designed to activate early to help ensure that you and your family have time to safely escape from your home. Smoke alarms should be installed and maintained inside every bedroom, outside each sleeping area, and on every level of a home.

To develop your escape plan, we recommend drawing a map of your home with all members of your household. Mark two exits from each room (one could be a window) and a path to a designated outdoor meeting place located a safe distance from your home.

Once the escape map is complete, have a home fire drill and practice using different ways out. Remember to get low and go. Closing doors behind you as you leave to help slow the spread of smoke, heat, and fire.

It's important to teach children how to escape on their own in the event you can't help them. Families with infants, toddlers, and/or those with mobility needs should tailor their plans to ensure everyone gets out safely.

Once outside, remain outside, and call 9-1-1. Never go back inside a burning building for anything.

For more fire prevention tips and the tools to create a fire escape plan, visit tvfr.com.

Notable Actions: City Boards and Commissions

City Council	Action	What it Means
Sept. 8	The Council approved an amendment to the City's contract with Leland Consulting Group.	The amendment funds additional due diligence in the ongoing process to solicit developers for the proposed Transit-Oriented Development (TOD) project at the Wilsonville Transit Center.
Sept. 8	On first reading, the Council adopted two ordinances that annex and rezone 11.2 acres in the Frog Pond West neighborhood.	These actions accommodate the development of the 19-lot Frog Pond Terrace residential sub-division, consistent with the Frog Pond West Master Plan.
Sept. 8	The Council directed the City Manager to include language requesting clear standards for public engagement in a letter to Oregon Transportation Commission.	The letter comments on the proposed Oregon Highway Plan Toll Amendment, and advocates for opportunities for community members to engage and comment on ODOT's proposal to begin tolling portions of I-5 and I-205.
Aug. 15	The Council approved an intergovernmental agreement that renews and defines terms of the School Resource Officer (SRO) program.	The SRO program continues to provide a law enforcement officer based at Wilsonville High School who is dedicated to serving the City's student population.
Aug. 15	The Council approved a refund of $118,000 in System Development Charges (SDC) to Coffee Creek Logistics Holdings.	The money funded water and sewer infrastructure built by the developer within the new 110,000-square-foot Coffee Creek Logistics Center.
Aug. 15	The council approved methodology to calculate "average floor area" of mixed use development projects to be constructed within approved Vertical Housing Development Zones (VHDZ).	This clarification ensures that development incentives are only awarded to projects that meet local goals and objectives outlined within the VHDZ program and the 2019 Wilsonville Town Center Plan.
Aug. 15	On second reading, the Council adopted an ordinance to rezone a .55-acre property on Boones Ferry Rd. to Planned Development Industrial Zone as recommended by the Development Review Board.	This action is to bring the property into compliance with applicable City standards for an industrial storage yard located adjacent to a mobile home park that belongs to the same property owner.

Oregon Tech Ranks High on U.S. News Annual List of Best Colleges

Oregon Institute of Technology (OIT) has moved up in multiple categories in the most recent U.S. News and World Report rankings of the nation's best colleges and universities.

Released in September 2022, the new U.S. News rankings include OIT on the following lists:

- #29, Best Undergraduate Engineering - No Doctorate
- #2, Top Public Schools (Regional Colleges, West)
- #6, Overall (Regional Colleges, West)
- #3, Best Colleges for Veterans (Regional Colleges, West)
- #15, Social Mobility (Regional Colleges West)

Oregon Tech is ranked #15 among bachelor colleges by Washington Monthly, which bases its ranking on contribution to the public good in three broad categories: social mobility, research and promoting public service. Additionally, OIT lands at #40 among Western schools in Washington Monthly's "Best Bang For The Buck" category (tops among Oregon public universities).

On the Forbes annual Top Colleges list, Oregon Tech ranks among the top 20 percent of all four-year and graduate universities in the nation; #377 overall and #179 among public colleges.

These rankings reinforce Oregon Tech's reputation; the school's real-world focus yields average starting salaries of $60,000 per year for graduates.

Full 2022 U.S. News rankings can be found at usnews.com/colleges. For a complete list of Oregon Tech accolades, visit oit.edu/news/university-accolades-rankings.

Charbonneau Festival of the Arts Scheduled for September 2023

Charbonneau Arts Association has scheduled the 39th Annual Charbonneau Festival of the Arts for September 22-24, 2023.

A decision to move the festival to late September was informed by conversations with art teachers at Canby and Wilsonville High Schools, whose student artists are featured at the festival.

Charbonneau Festival of the Arts
Sept. 22-24, 2023
 Charbonneau Country Club

The Festival is hosted at Charbonneau Country Club, and is scheduled to include an artisan vendor show, fine art gallery, student art gallery, and fund-raising silent auction. Live musicians will perform at the event once again this year.

The Charbonneau Festival of the Arts is a unique indoor event that provides a venue for local artists and artisans to exhibit and sell their work. The event helps to raise funds for the arts programs at Canby and Wilsonville High Schools.

The Festival was last held in June 2022, after postponements because of COVID-19.

Charbonneau Arts Association is a non-profit 502(c)(3) organization that supports public arts education in local high schools.
